PruFund Expected Growth Rates

International Prudence Bond

What are the Expected Growth Rates (EGR)?
We announce the EGR that apply to the PruFund Range of Funds every quarter.

The EGR is the annualised rate which will apply daily to increase the unit price of the fund. The Prudential Assurance Company Ltd Directors set the EGR quarterly, taking into account the expected long-term investment return on the assets of the fund.

The EGR shown on the table opposite, are gross of all charges, including Annual Management Charges, and are applicable from 27 August 2019.

Important Information about the Expected Growth Rates
The EGR set at each quarter date may be higher, the same or lower than those that apply at the start of your investment.

Also, there may be times where the unit price is adjusted which will impact the growth received. The overall return is affected by:

- the amount of the investment,
- the investment performance,
- the period over which the bond has been invested and,
- the charges applied.

For example, if we experience large investments in and out of the fund, we might not apply the smoothing process – this is known as suspension of smoothing. If this happens, the unit price will increase or decrease each day in line with the value of the underlying investments. Suspension of smoothing can be applied independently for each fund in the PruFund Range of Funds.

You should read the "Guide to investing in the PruFund Range of Funds" and the Contract Conditions for more information on how the EGR works.
